

Q & A
ME & MY WARDROBE

When model Juliana Mizon commissioned Wyndham Design to create her luxe new dressing room, she knew exactly what she wanted

Interview PENDLE HARTE

Q: What do you like best about the space?

A: I love how peaceful and how girlie it is. There's a little lounge area where you can sit and have drinks – it's not just get dressed and go. There's a makeup area, a hair station. It's every girl's dream. I had a good walk-in wardrobe before, but it was quite dark and masculine. This is the wardrobe I dreamt of as a little girl.

Q: What is in the island in the middle?

A: My fashion books are on display, along with flowers. I love white flowers. There's a picture of my wedding in Paris, which was very beautiful. And in the cupboard are folding areas, I always think that hanging jeans is a waste of wardrobe space, so I fold them.

Q: How long did the project take and how did you cope in the meantime?

A: The project took six months in all. All my clothes were in storage! I was desperate to take them out of boxes. Richard [Thomas, of Wyndham Design] is amazing, he just wants to please you. When I wanted to change things he didn't mind; he was great. Even though he's so experienced, he makes you feel like it's the first wardrobe he's ever worked on, he's very passionate and I love that. 📌

Q: How much wardrobe space did you need?

A: Probably triple what I had! I converted one of the big bedrooms in our new house into a dressing room with an en suite. There's an entire wall of handbags and three hanging wardrobes. I have a lot of clothes! I might need to take another room in the house at some point...

Q: How many pairs of shoes did you need to store?

A: 70 pairs in all - but I've already asked for more storage space. I created an amazing centrepiece out of shoes I don't wear every day – it's brilliantly lit to catch the sparkles.

Q: How did you go about planning it?

A: I said I wanted white, lots of light, and I wanted it to look like a store. My style is very girlie: I wanted to display my artworks, flowers and chandeliers. I have a lot of art, I love portraits, I love to have a lot of faces looking at me in the house. My favourites are fashion icons such as Audrey Hepburn.
